

1759 God s Acre for Strangers & 1769 Dobbs Parish Graveyards

During the fever epidemic of 1759 the Moravians laid out the Strangers Graveyard for non-Moravians living at the nearby mill fort, using the traditional Moravian custom of facing the graveyardeast, divided into four sections, with women to the north, men to the south, and girls located under women and boys under men. After the Bethabara God's Acre this is the second oldest graveyard in Forsyth County. In 1769 the Moravians turned the graveyard over to the Dobbs Parish for administration and record keeping. The smaller 1759 graveyard contains all burials before 1759, as well as a number after 1769 until at least the 1840s. There are a number of graves, especially for boys, outside the Strangers Graveyard, in the larger Dobbs Parish Graveyard. The number identification of the graves is based upon archaeological and documentation research. Many burials are presently unidentified, especially for the later period, in the Dobbs Parish Graveyard. The steep bank at the bottom of the graveyard is one side of the colonial road to Salisbury, NC. For a number of years this graveyard was owned and cared for in the Kent and Speas families. If desired more information may be obtained at the Historic Bethabara Park visitor center. After your visit, please return this graveyard list to the mailbox for the next visitor. Thank you.
