During disasters, local emergency responders may be overwhelmed and citizens must accept the responsibility for their own safety and survival. All personal preparations and plans for emergency situations that may affect you and your family should be designed so that they provide the necessities for surviving, without assistance from others, for a period of three days. These plans and preparations could mean the difference between life and death.

Make a Plan!

- ❑ Work with your family, as a team, to review and practice emergency plans and drills.
- ❑ Have an out-of-town and a local emergency contact that each family member can call in case of separation. Every family member should keep the contact numbers with them at all times.
- ❑ Decide where you will meet.
- ❑ Ensure that every family member knows the best escape routes out of your home as well as the safe places in your home for each type of disaster.
- ❑ Plan for those with disabilities and other special needs.
- ❑ Remember to plan for your pets.
- ❑ Make sure you have adequate insurance coverage.
- ❑ Keep vital records and documents in a safe location.
