Bridging the Triad

The Annual Bridging the Triad is returning in February! This competition challenges participants to explore STEM programming and test their engineering skills by building a bridge with only 100 craft sticks and glue. The bridge must then withstand weight being applied to it. Whichever bridges last the longest, wins.

This competition features age groups for 8-10, 11-14, 15-17, and adults. There will be a local competition held at Miller Park Community Center on February 4 at 10 am. The winners will go on to the regional competition on February 25 to face-off against the winners from Greensboro, High Point, Kernersville, Lexington, and Thomasville. For more information, email WePLAYevents@cityofws.org.

Events for Black History Month

South Fork Community Center will be hosting a special event on February 18 from 11 am—3 pm with a special guest, Mrs. Katherine Moore. Mrs. Moore is the daughter of the late Katherine Johnson, who was one of the subjects of the movie and film, Hidden Figures. She will speak about her mother’s career, accomplishments, and how she came to live such an extraordinary life. In addition to Mrs. Moore’s appearance, there will also be STEM researchers, scientists, doctors, and professionals from our community. These individuals will be available to speak with the public, especially youth, about what they do, how and why they fell in love with science, and how our youth can be a part of this amazing legacy that Katherine Johnson trailblazed to create.

Brown & Douglas Active Adult Center will host two programs honoring Black History Month. On February 24 at 11 am, they will host a production called Renaissance. This program will feature works of the artist of the Harlem Renaissance. On February 26 at 3 pm, there will be a performance by the Twin City Choristers. The singers are part of an all male performing choral group that was organized in 1957. This group has performed across the United States.

Old Town Neighborhood Center will host their Old Town Film Series on February 7 and 21, both at 6 pm. Green Book will be shown on February 7 and The Great Debaters will air on February 21. Refreshments will be available at both showings.

If you are interested in learning more about any of these programs, please email WePLAYevents@cityofws.org.
